

Break Down

Words and Music by Lars Nolte and Patrick Scheibe, 2007

I think this love, the greatest love mankind ever saw,
This man would die for you and more,
catch the sun and change it with the moon,
She kicked hard, bud reaction coming soon.
This love greatest love mankind ever saw,
this man would die for you, you whore.
Catch the sun, change it with the moon,
she kicked hard, but reaction coming soon.

*Breaking me down, never see this part of my own,
Burning my dreams and never see a fire in me.
Then you'll see this man, walking through this white light, exploded heart,
No hope for any fight, no hope for any fight.
Lying in my bed and never felt so ill.
Nobody found this guy who died by this bitter pill.*

She said: Sorry honey, I waste up my life.
Much too long, I was your pretty wife.
I am arrested now, I want so much more.
I said let her go, this motherfucking whore.
Now you're down and you feel like a broken neck.
You hope that she is coming back.
Build this house and try new growing up.
I now you reach it, please don't stop.

*Breaking me down, never see this part of my own,
Burning my dreams and never see a fire in me.
Then you'll see this man, walking through this white light, exploded heart,
No hope for any fight, no hope for any fight.
Lying in my bed and never felt so ill.
Nobody found this guy who died by this bitter pill.*